BELIEVE LIGHTS WILL BE REALITY

Business Men Generally Are Approving of Plan to Beautify Downtown District of City.

WILL MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

About Forty Merchants Have Agreed to Stand Assessment For the Improvement.

A special called meeting of the Rushville Retail Merchants' Association will be held at the court house tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, when the light question will come up for consideration. The question as to whether or not Rushville will have decorative and artistic sidewalk lights in her downtown district has been an all important question before the business men for the past week. Although it is not promised that anything definite will be accomplished, the meeting is primarily to talk the matter over. The president of the association urges that every business man, who is interested, be present at the meeting and express his views, rather than wait until the session has passed and then voice his objections among other business men who are in favor of the proposition.

A committee was appointed at the meeting of the merchants last Thursday, whose duty it is to get subscriptions for the lights. They have not near completed the canvass for subscriptions, yet they already have forty business men who have signed the paper to give at least twenty-five dollars to pay for the new sidewalk lights. All of the subscriptions so far have been made willingly and without any attempt at coercion on the part of the committee. They are working slowly and intend to see every business man whose place will be lighted by the lights, which are contemplated.

"I believe the city council has made us a fair offer," said Ben L. Cox, president of the association, Saturday. "They have done more, I believe, than any other city council would have done. They have made us a fair proposition and I see no reason why the business men of the city should not take advantage of it to make an improvement, which would help Rushville very much."

The plan of lighting seems to be meeting with approval generally among the business men, all of whom are in favor of bettering Rushville in any manner possible. It is thought that the proposition will be carried through successfully but not without some hard work.

MAIL CARRIER IN ACCIDENT

Motorcycle, Ridden by Lon Kennedy, Goes Over Embankment.

Lon Kennedy, rural mail carrier on route seven, who makes his trips on a motorcycle, went into a ditch this morning just west of the L. E. & W. railroad, when he had almost completed his day's journey. His machine skidded, when he was forced over on the wet grass to get around some rigs, and he and his machine went down a six-foot embankment into the ditch. Mr. Kennedy stayed with his motorcycle but was not injured in the least. With the aid of another man, he pulled the motor back on the road and came on in to the post office.

RELEASES BOYS TO AWAIT TRIAL

Frank Myers and Theodore Carter, Who Stole Wheels Saturday, Will be Arraigned Tomorrow.

IN THE RUSH CIRCUIT COURT

Theodore Carter and Frank Myers, the two boys, twelve and fourteen years old, respectively, who were arrested by City Marshal Jesse Harlow, near Morristown Saturday morning after a long chase in an automobile, for stealing bicycles belonging to A. R. Holden and Frank Abercrombie, were taken before Judge Will Sparks in the circuit court at nine o'clock this morning. The court allowed the youths to go free until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock, when their trial will be held. The boys did not seem any the worse for their Sunday in jail, although they were somewhat repentant this morning and showed some remorse for their actions. Saturday, when they were placed in jail, the youths were brazen and did not even break down when they were put behind the bars, not realizing the greatness of their crime. The parents of the two boys did not make any effort to get them out of jail, one of them saying that they could do nothing with their son.

WILL PUT IN LARGE ACREAGE OF WHEAT

Farmers Are Busy Sowing Now and Work Will be Finished by End of Month.

ATTENTION IS GIVEN TO SEED

The farmers of the county are busy with wheat sowing and before the close of the month practically all of the wheat will be sown. The weather has been favorable for the cultivation of the ground and but little time has been lost in plowing and preparing the ground. A few of the fields have been sown for several days, but the majority of the farmers will not complete the work for several days.

It is estimated that an unusually large acreage will be sown this year, as the crop proved very valuable this year and the prospects are very encouraging for another big harvest next season. Much attention has been given to the selection of seed, as it is realized that in order to get a large harvest the best seed possible must be secured. It is believed that the wheat improvement train which passed through this city several weeks ago, is responsible to a large extent for the large acreage this year.

MODEL WIFE NOT SLAVE OF FASHION

But Rather Have Pride Without Being Vain Declares the Rev. R. W. Abberley at Christian Church.

SECOND OF LECTURE SERIES

Should Seek Elegance That Comes From Good Manners and Not Beauty From "Beauty Parlor."

"The Model Wife" was discussed last night at the Main Street Christian church by the Rev. R. W. Abberley in his second lecture-sermon on "The Wedding Ring." A large crowd, filling the main auditorium, listened with great interest to the sermon which glistened with strong practical points, interspersed with wit and pathos.

The speaker read for the Scripture lesson the 31st chapter of Proverbs which contains Solomon's description of the excellent woman. He quoted the words of the wise King of Israel who said "A prudent wife is from the Lord."

In the lecture that followed Mr. Abberley said in part: "Woman is queen of the home, her scepter is the scepter of love and her law, the law of kindness. The model wife will always be in sympathy with her husband's work and ambitions. They will share life's burdens together and rejoice in life's triumphs. Quoting Edmund Burke, the great statesman's essaying 'Every care vanishes the moment I enter my wife's presence.'"

"The model wife will do her best to make the home the most attractive place in the universe. To this end she will keep it clean and healthful. It will be a pleasure palace and not a dreary dungeon. 'Debt, dirt and the devil,' said C. H. Spurgeon, 'should be excluded from the home and it will then be a happy one.'"

"A cheerful disposition is necessary in a model wife. Some people are never happy unless they are unhappy, never contented unless they are discontented, but a sunny disposition is a great help to drive away dull care."

"The model wife will not be a slave of fashion. She will have pride without being vain, have self respect without being arrogant, be a lover of the beautiful in art and nature and seek the elegance that comes from good manners and the beauty that comes not from the 'beauty parlor,' but from a sweet temper and noble thoughts. She will seek to grow intellectually and not allow her husband to have all the brains under his massive cranium."

"Of course, a model wife will have domestic tastes and realize the virtue and merit in wholesome cooking and proper care of the family. She will be a good mother and lover of children. Motherhood is woman's divinest and holiest service. The home is the university of the whole race. Great and good men have usually had great and good mothers. A mother's love is stronger than death."

"Chief of all a model wife will be a Christian woman. No culture of mind or beauty of face or elegance of manners will compare with purity and virtue, the crowning glory of a Christly womanhood."

Next Sunday night Mr. Abberley will lecture on "The Model Husband."

SAY ACTION IS NOT SENTIMENT

Local Veterans do Not Approve of Committee's Resolution Declaring Against $1 a Day Pension.

WEALTHY OFFICERS CONTROL

Have Amassed Money and Wealth and Outgrown the Old Spirit of Comradeship.

Far from being in accord with the action of the national encampment of the G. A. R. in the question of a dollar a day for the veterans is the membership of the Joel Wolfe Post of this city. The members are almost at a loss to understand what prompted the national association to turn down the proposition asking congress to increase the pensions of the old soldiers. The action of the committee in declaring against the proposed pension of a dollar a day for veterans is declared not the true sentiment of that body.

One well informed veteran says that the committee is dominated by former army officers who have outgrown the spirit of comradeship that they possessed while on the field and have also forgotten the many hardships they then endured during the recent years of affluence. It is largely this element, he says, who now want to canonize the men that led their forces against the country and place their statues in Statuary Hall at Washington. "Heaven knows," he added, "I can fully and freely forgive every Rebel soldier and officer, but there are some things I can not forget."

Congress looks with much favor on the dollar a day pension and the report of the committee may not have much weight. Several congressmen have ventured the opinion that the bill will be passed at the coming short session.

It is argued that the country loses really nothing as the pension is one of the most effective vehicles of circulating money among the people of all sections. The old soldiers' money is not hoarded as a rule, but is paid out for the necessities of life, almost as soon as received. The pensions would go direct to only soldiers who were actually in the service and in the nature of things their number will diminish rapidly. The bill, as drawn, would do away with a great amount of red tape machinery that costs millions of dollars annually.

The Rushville post was almost to a man, in favor of the increase. It does not believe that because the national association did not see fit to prove of the old soldiers' appeal that the law will not meet with strong approval from a majority of congressmen. Local veterans have not given up hopes. Several of the members have declared that the decision of the national encampment does not represent the sentiment of the majority of the posts in the United States. The voting strength of the encampment, had all posts been represented, was more than 800, but there were only 250 delegates in attendance who passed on the resolution in regard to the pension increase.

ARREST ANOTHER FOR SELLING BOOZE

Lige Pea, Jr., is Taken Into Custody by City Marshal on Blind Tiger Charge.

HAVE EVIDENCE TO CONVICT

Lige Pea, Jr., was arrested Saturday afternoon, while at work on the new Rushville National bank building at the corner of Main and Second streets, by City Marshal Jesse Harlow on a charge of operating a blind tiger. He was arraigned before Mayor B. A. Black and upon failure to give bond, was taken to jail, where he is now held. Pea will be given trial before the mayor some time this week.

The warrant for Pea's arrest was made out Wednesday by the deputy prosecutor, Wallace Morgan, but the city officials were kind enough to allow Pea to work until Saturday so that he could draw his week's pay before they arrested him. Pea was seen to get off a traction car one week ago last Saturday night and was followed by officers to his home. The city authorities say that they have evidence that he sold it and that he is guilty of the charge.

WAS AUSPICIOUS START AS PASTOR

The Rev. J. B. Meacham Pleased Large Crowds at the First Presbyterian Church.

MADE CONFESSIONS AT NIGHT

Drew Parallel Between the Politician of Today and the Minister of the Gospel.

The Rev. J. B. Meacham, the new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, began his ministry yesterday, preaching to a large congregation both morning and evening. He is an earnest, forceful and convincing speaker and the possessor of a pleasing delivery and winning personality. He most favorably impressed all who heard him.

The subject of the morning sermon was "Paul a Spendthrift." The text was taken from II Corinthians 12:15: "I will gladly spend and be spent for your souls." He spoke of the power God had invested in man in making him capable of choosing and determining the course of his life for good or evil.

"In so far as man responds to the commands of God and says 'I will' just to that extent may he become more Godlike in life and character," said the Rev. Mr. Meacham. "In so far as he repudiates the Divine to that extent does he lower himself more nearly to the life of the lower animals. Paul knew men and appealed to them in terms that caught and held attention, Corinth, the great center of trade by land and sea, where people from different parts of the world met and traded and spent their money, would be attracted by the words of Paul, for men then and now are very much the same. From a commercial point of view a man's worth to a community may be rated by what he spends. From a moral and religious point of view he must be rated by what he is and not by what he has."

"Paul was a spendthrift for his Lord and Master, of time, strength, talents and life, and his value to the world is still recognized and felt. His self-abandon for souls for Jesus made him what he was. He gave all he had and then gave himself. When a man learns to be a spendthrift for the good of others he will need less preaching to and looking after himself."

The subject of the evening sermon was "The Confession of a Minister." The text was taken from IV Corinthians 4:13. "We believe and therefore speak. He drew a parallel between the confession of the political leader who made known his belief in the platform of his party, and the confessions of the religious leader or minister which he makes in representing and leading his people. The people have a right and ought to know the belief of those who stand up as their representatives. His confession contained four principal facts or planks in the platform. He asserted that he believed the Bible to be the inspired word of God, a sufficient guide for every phase of public, political, municipal, home and individual life; That sin is a fact, that hell is a reality and prepared for those who reject Christ. That Jesus is the son of God and is both human and divine, and that salvation is for all who will accept it.

Special music by the quartet from St. Paul's M. E. church was an interesting feature of the evening service. It was indeed a big day for the congregation which had been without a pastor for several months and most auspicious beginning of the new pastor's work in this city.

CONCERN OF ONE CONCERN OF ALL

Railway Organizations Stand By the Employing Roads.

EXERT POWERFUL INFLUENCE

Declaring That the Demands of Companies For a Right to Increase Rates Are Reasonable, Powerful Organizations, Representing the Men Who Man the Roads, Will Memorialize the President and Congress.

New York, Sept. 26.—The most significant council of railroad employees ever held in this country instructed at the Amsterdam opera house Sunday the chiefs of the four great organizations of railroad workmen to go to Washington and appeal to the government of the United States for a square deal for their employers. The meeting was characterized by the brotherhoods themselves as the most momentous since the first spike was driven into the first railroad, for these reasons: It was the first out and out pronouncement that the interests of employers and employees are identical; it was the first time the powerful unions have ever united to back up the railroad companies by going directly to the government; it marked, as the leaders of the brotherhoods agreed, the growth of a spirit of fairness and mutuality toward the companies that pay the wages; it served notice that while the brotherhoods are not minded to act as tags for any political party, they intend to scrutinize the attitude of candidates for office (particularly for federal office) as to how employers as well as employees shall be treated by the lawmakers and law enforcers.

Three thousand delegates, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen gathered at the Amsterdam opera house and listened to speeches from Warren S. Stone, grand chief of engineers; A. B. Garretson, president of conductors; W. G. Lee, president of trainmen; P. H. Morris, president of the American Railroad Investors and Employees' association; G. H. Sines, vice president of the trainmen, and other executives.

The delegates came with authority from 350,000 railroad workmen on sixty-three railroads east of the Mississippi river, and they represented 2,000,000 voters dependent for a livelihood on the railroad companies. After four hours' conference they addressed a memorial to President Taft, the interstate commerce commission, and all state and national law-making bodies. The memorial contains resolutions supporting the railroad companies in their contention that they be permitted to make a reasonable increase in rates.

The brotherhoods did not take action suddenly or tumultuously. The proposal to stand by the companies had been talked over for several months in all the lodges. It had been threshed out thoroughly and the delegates came to the council with one idea in mind—that the employees were in the same boat with the companies. They were in absolute harmony on all the principal points brought up at the meeting.

HE BROKE DOWN

Dr. Grant Becomes Hysterical When Told of Nurse's Confession.

San Francisco, Sept. 26.—The police have got what they say is conclusive evidence that Dr. James Grant caused the death of Eva Swan, the young stenographer whose mutilated body was crowded into a trunk and buried last April under the basement of a lonely cottage in the Mission district.

Marie Messerschmidt, a trained nurse, who for a year has acted as Dr. Grant's assistant and office attendant, has made a confession to the police. The nurse also declared that Paul Parker, well known Stanford graduate and a prominent athlete, was responsible for Miss Swan's condition and that he was present at the operation which resulted fatally.

When the news was broken to Dr. Grant in his cell that Miss Messerschmidt had confessed he had a hysterical attack. He sobbed and moaned and declared the woman had sent him to his death.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of ingredients composing it is printed in plain English. More than forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood-purifier and invigorating tonic, the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone root and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine.

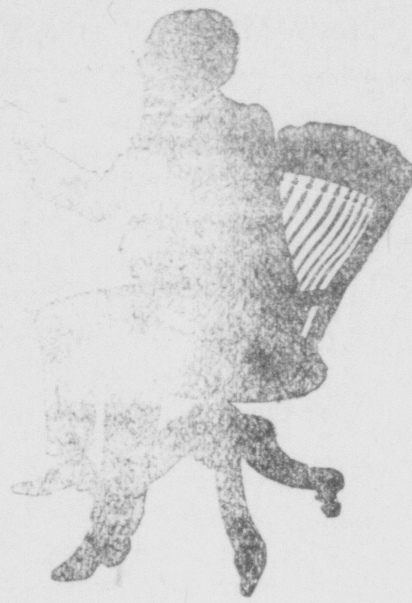

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed.

In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing by sending them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist doesn't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Medical and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing" Salve will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Though he offers the substitute for a less price you can't afford to experiment with your health. Go where they give you what you ask for without argument.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

FIXING BLAME FOR COLLISION

Motorman Is Understood to Have Overrun Order.

ANOTHER CRASH ON A CURVE

Heavy Freight Car on the Indiana Union Traction Line Dashed Head-on Into a Crowded Passenger Car on Curve Near Tipton and Six Persons Were Killed and Fourteen Seriously Injured.

Tipton, Ind., Sept. 26.—Under circumstances amazingly similar to those surrounding the recent traction disaster near Bluffton a few days ago, when forty-one persons were killed, an extra southbound freight train on the Indiana Union Traction line crashed into a northbound Kokomo limited near this city, killing six and injuring fourteen persons. The freight train consisted of two cars, both heavily loaded. Alleged failure on the part of the motorman of the extra, Daniel Lacey of Indianapolis, to abide by orders is given as the cause of the wreck.

The dead: Lewis Broo, Kokomo, traveling salesman; Joshua Baker, Logansport, motorman of the limited car; D. E. Walsh, Fort Wayne, traveling salesman; Dr. W. F. Holthausen, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Walter H. Holthausen, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Verdel Rallsback, pharmacist, Hymera, Ind.

Charles Drago, train dispatcher at this point, under whose direction the ill-fated cars were running at the time of the accident, said that the extra freight had orders from him to pull into "Jackson's," a switch five miles north of here and about three miles north of the wreck, to wait for the limited. The supposition is that Daniel Lacey, motorman of the freight, "overran his order."

Joshua Baker, the motorman of the limited, was one of the most seasoned motormen in the employ of the company. His car got out of Tipton ten minutes late, and passengers on the limited say the car was running at high speed from the time it cleared the limits of the city of Tipton. All of the men killed, save Baker, the motorman of the limited, were in the smoking compartment. Baker stuck to his post in the vestibule. All were killed instantly except young Rallsback, who died on his way to this city on the first relief car.

Lacey, the motorman of the freight car, and Ira C. Bell of Indianapolis also, the conductor, saw the approaching danger in time to leap from the car and neither was seriously hurt.

Probably the saddest death was that of Dr. W. F. Holthausen of Brooklyn, N. Y. With him was his brother, Walter H. Holthausen, also of Brooklyn. Both were killed. The doctor was on his way to Kokomo, where he was to have been married today to Miss Nellie Coxon. His brother was to have been best man at the wedding.

FORTY-ONE DEAD

The Horror of the Kingsland Wreck Continues to Grow.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 26.—The officials of the Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley traction line have recovered the missing orders under which Motorman B. E. Corkwell and Conductor Del Wilson were operating when they crashed into a loaded passenger car Wednesday afternoon, and it is said they coincide with the statement and the records of Dispatcher Premier. They will be turned over to the state railroad commission with other evidence in the case.

Another victim was added to the list of the Kingsland wreck horror when C. M. Brown of Warren died at Hope hospital, making the forty-first fatality.

WOMAN IN THE CASE

This Is Now Opinion of Muncie Police Regarding Assassination.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 26.—The murder of Norman E. Black, the prominent Muncie business man and banker, who was shot through the head Thursday night while driving in the southern part of the city, still remains a mystery, the police admitting they have not a single clue that would warrant an arrest. The impression that there was a "woman in the case" grew stronger with the statements of several persons that they had seen Black out riding with an unknown woman, and the police have practically discarded all other theories.

Held on Suspicion.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 26.—Word has been received here that Dal Batt, a former Anderson negro, has been arrested in Chicago suspected of having murdered Clarence D. Hiller in Morgan Park. Batt served two years in the Jeffersonville reformatory, having been sent from this city after conviction for attempted assault.

Dug Up the Booze.

Columbus, Ind., Sept. 26.—The police raided a soft drink place here run by Albert Bozell, and with spades they dug up six gallons of whiskey buried in the basement. Bozell was arrested on a "blind tiger" charge.

ROOSEVELT IS ANGRY AT COMPROMISE TALE

"I Stand Exactly Where I Have Stood," He Says.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 26.—Before departing for Saratoga Colonel Roosevelt took occasion to make a positive announcement in regard to his attitude on the direct primary. He was angry at stories that appeared in two New York papers saying that he was going to compromise because a lot of upstate delegates are not satisfied with the direct primary. He says he is not.

The colonel read that not a few upstate delegates favor to some extent the direct nomination principle, but that they do not agree with the Hughes-Roosevelt idea. He read, too, that these delegates would support him for the temporary chairmanship, but will balk at the direct primary plank unless it is toned down.

"The statement that I considered a compromise on the direct primary plank is untrue," Mr. Roosevelt said. "I stand exactly where I have stood, and while it is true that there are some upstate men who are not with us, I think we will have a majority with us for direct primaries."

He was pretty much wrought up over these reports of compromise, was Mr. Roosevelt. He said unkind things about the correspondents who wrote the stories, and declared that he would not talk with them in the future. Someone mentioned the Ananias club, and he smiled.

Now that he has put his position clearly, the colonel is all ready for the real fight at Saratoga. He is for the Cobb compromise direct nominations bill, which is favored by Governor Hughes and President Taft. He still is for "a clean-cut progressive ticket and platform," and he will make his fight in that direction.

The colonel is pretty certain that the progressives will win at the convention. He expects to unseat Sherman as temporary chairman and to make the keynote speech himself, in which he will sound the opening notes for the others to follow.

Irish Envoys Arrive.

New York, Sept. 26.—T. P. O'Connor, Joseph Devlin, John Redmond and D. Boyle, all Irish members of parliament, who will present to the people of this country and Canada reasons for the support of Irish home rule, arrived Sunday and were received by a big delegation of Irish Americans at the pier. The envoys will lecture in this country and Canada and sail for home in time to be at the opening of parliament Nov. 15.

Three Killed in Auto Wreck.

Gloucester, N. J., Sept. 26.—An automobile containing three men and two women was struck by an electric train here last night and two of the men and one of the women were killed and the other two injured. Those killed: Clayton P. Davis, Collingswood, N. J.; Charles P. Fest, nephew of Davis; Mrs. Amanda Mackey, daughter of Davis.

Indianian Killed in Oregon.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 26.—Emil J. Kuss, a druggist, formerly of South Bend, was robbed and murdered near Portland, Ore., according to information received by the family here.

Mayor Gaynor roasts the yellow newspapers, but they won't worry provided their cash is safe in the deposit box.

About now the householder regards the furnace about as gloomily as the turkey looks at the chopping block along in October.

Uncle Sam's customs men take the surprising position that a liar who comes from the Paris boulevards is no more glorious than one from the corner grocery.

Thunderbolts have twice shattered the statue of Henry Clay at Lexington, Ky., though when alive he vainly endeavored to get in the way of the presidential lightning.

Times are changing and the sugar trust which the government is trying to dissolve, has just reduced sugar 10 cents a 100. Formerly the corporations paid for the anti-trust suits by raising the price of their product.

An observing writer alludes to the fact of the great waste of land in this country of the wide space along each side of the roadway between the fence and the road which is never used, but allowed to grow up in weeds and grass. You do not see this in Europe; there every foot of available ground is tilled and made to produce something to sustain life. Here, millions upon millions of acres of the best soil in the world between the fence and the road lie idle—a million acres in each twenty States, worth $5,000,000 to $100,000,000 all going to waste.

Nothing stirs the public like an issue involving personal relation between men. The consumer will grunt and then grin as he reads about the grafters getting away with the millions, and turn with more interest to the sporting page. But when he comes to read about Teddy and Taft, and who ought to do what to which, he begins to grow red and saw the air and pound the desk, even though it does not affect his business by a red cent. The strong contrast between Mr. Roosevelt's enthusiasm for Taft in 1908, and his present partial si-advocated, stands as a towering monument to his political career.

In a resume of business conditions the Cincinnati Enquirer finds that the country is prosperous and business in nearly all lines excellent. That doesn't furnish its readers with much argument for a change in the political governing power.

The Democratic party certainly can not ask to be allowed to adjust the tariff laws on the strength of its tariff record. It had the opportunity of enacting a tariff law not many years ago and the conditions that followed are fresh in the minds of the people.

In the desperate attempt to solve the servant girl problem some one has invented a device for self cooking foods. The foods are put up in cans and all the hungry purchaser has to do is to punch a hole in the top of the can which causes heat to form from a chemical lining in the can. There is still room for the ambitious inventor, however, in the field of the self-washing clothes and auto-scrubbing brush.

Orders Flooding Into Rushville Art Brass Company, Makers of Fancy Home Decorations.

TO WORK IN GERMAN SILVER

The Rushville Art Brass company, with offices in the Daily Republican building is flooded with orders and if present indications continue, they will have more business than they can attend to. They have completed some of their work and have already made some deliveries. Two samples are to be found in Reardon's shoe store window and another one has been sold to Grand M. Carr, manager of the Star Grand theater, and will be placed in his window. The managers of the new company have made arrangements with R. H. Jones, proprietor of the 99 cent store, to handle their output and a stock will be placed in there in a few days.

The young men have added a new phase to their manufactory. They will do work in German silver, making and hammering out many artistic pieces from that metal. Crafting a metal is a comparatively new art and deserves the popularity with which it is being received, as both of the workmen are Rushville young men. In this class of work it is possible to obtain at a very moderate cost, articles of real value and distinction of endless variety. It is specially appeals to people interested in interior home decoration.

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand management will offer a Biograph subject tonight entitled "A Mohawk's Way," a subject of the James Fenimore Cooper type. In defatigable in the extreme was the Mphawk; excessive in his expression of gratitude, he is equally determined in his quest for vengeance—justice, however, being his incentive. Highly emotional, he possesses the power of dissembling to such an extent as to ascribe himself stoical. This double nature is clearly shown in this Biograph story, which gives it a Cooper atmosphere. Earl Robertson will sing the illustrated song. Sinclair's novelty musical act and the Cameraphone singing, talking and dancing pictures. This is the first time the Cameraphone pictures have ever been shown in our city.

The Vaudet management will offer another Imp film tonight. "A Rural Romeo" is said to be a picture of considerable merit. It is a comedy-drama, telling a story that is filled with mirth and is again serious. There is a tinge of sadness and realism which makes it one of the best which the Imp concern has reproduced recently.

"The Girl in the Kimona," a musical show which had a good summer run in Chicago, and which is preparing to go into New York to "try to break the 'hoodoo' which seems to hang over Chicago theatrical products in the Eastern metropolis, comes to English's next Monday evening for a three days' run. Helen Bagg, a magazine writer, wrote the play and Phil Schwartz, the music.

LORD LOVELAND DISCOVERERS AMERICA

BY C.N. & A.M. WILLIAMSON.

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company
Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

This is the remarkable romance of a young lord, poor in pocket, rich in personal attractiveness and well endowed with egotism, who came to America to secure an heiress and got the awakening of a lifetime. Handsome, spoiled, supercilious and vain, yet brave, chivalrous and kind, Lord Loveland is a very interesting chap, and his adventures in the land of heiresses develop more humor, more pathos and more surprises than are to be found in a half dozen novels. Gentle reader—"The Marquis of Loveland!"

CHAPTER I.

THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA BY LORD LOVELAND.

“EVEN the last resort has refused me,” Loveland broke the news to his mother when he had kissed her.

“Miss Mecklenburg?”

“Yes; I begin to realize that I’m a sinking ship. The early rats are deserting me or declining to come on board. Clever little animals!”

“You shan’t sink,” protested Lady Loveland, clasping the pretty hands whence all save the wedding ring and its guard had gone to pay a visit of indefinite length to Messrs. Battenborough. “The idiot, to refuse you—with her nose too!”

“She didn’t do it with her nose, matter. Her engagement to Doriana was announced the morning after she’d offered to be a sister to me. It was the size of her purse, not her nose, which caught his eye. But sooner or later he’ll beat her.”

“I hope so. She deserves it for taking him instead of you. Oh, Val, what a world!”

“Don’t grouse, mater. I might have beaten her if I’d got her, and then there’d have been a scandal. I can’t stand women with important looking teeth and noses which throw their other features into perspective. Besides, Lillah Mecklenburg isn’t as young as she’s painted.”

“So few women are nowadays, dearest,” sighed Lady Loveland, who in living for her handsome son did not trouble to live up to the past of her complexion. “Oh, Val, it’s hard you should have to think of such creatures! But what are we to do?”

“That’s just where I want your advice,” said Loveland, who had come a long way to get it, for the distance from London to the north of Scotland is formidable when birds are out of season.

Lady Loveland was flattered that Val should ask for her advice, which, when offered gratuitously, he had never been known to take.

“My advice!” she echoed sadly. “That’s all I can give you now, although I did hope, dear boy, I must confess, I—I have been trying for limericks. It was for your sake, and I hoped to win large sums. I thought of lines all night long, and I did send in some splendid ones, a thousand times better than those for which other people (dreadful people, my dear, with names like Hogson and Dobbis) have won hundreds of pounds. I gave the editors permission to use my name, too—one would have thought a valuable advertisement for their papers. But all I’ve won after the greatest efforts has been fifteen and six—an insult—while these Dobbis and Hogsons—I believe the editors must be Socialists. And the shillings for the postal orders have counted up into pounds. I am crushed with remorse.”

“Never mind, dear; you meant it for the best,” said Val, who cared more for his mother than for any one else in the world—except himself. And that he made this exception was largely Lady Loveland’s fault, for she had brought him up to believe in but one person of paramount importance, adorning the universe—Percival George Victor Edward Gordon, thirteenth marquis of Loveland. “The ship’s too far under water to be raised with limericks.”

“Dearest, is it bad as that?”

“It’s as bad as anything can be. Look out of your window at the snow falling. Well, that’s nothing to the way it’s snowing bills outside my window. If you and I can’t think of something to clear the weather I shall have to chuck the army.”

“What horrible creatures tradesmen must be!” said Lady Loveland, whose opinions had come down to her crust-ed and spider webbed from the cellars of the stone age. “To think that we’d have had power of life and death over them if we’d lived a few hundred years ago! I wish those times could come back.”

“The world at large doesn’t agree with you.”

“It oughtn’t to be at large,” replied Lady Loveland without the smallest idea of a joke. “It’s reached a pretty pass when Worms who make boots and uniforms and—

“And sell wine!”

“Oh, if you like”—

“And jewelry!”

“Very well. Admit the jewelry!”

“And motors. I’ve wasted a good deal of substance in riotous motorcars, mater.”

“Oh, I suppose men of your position have some right to enjoy their lives. As I was saying, it’s come to a pretty pass when Worms who make or sell what every gentleman must have—things that ought simply to come like the air you breathe—can turn and rend an officer of the guards, a peer of the realm, without fear of being crushed.”

“If I’d chosen to be a kind of secret advertising agent for tradespeople I might have been dressed and wined for nothing, motorcarred, too, perhaps,” said Loveland. “I know some fellows who do go in for that sort of thing. But I’m hanged if I could. I’d rather blow out my brains decently.”

“Oh, my darling, don’t speak so wildly!” implored his mother. “There must be resources we can call upon—if we could only think of them.”

“I have called on several people’s resources without any good coming of it,” Loveland grinned faintly, though he was in the depths of depression and had suffered from insomnia for at least a week between 8 and 10 in the morning when so popular a young man should (in his own opinion) have been dreaming of last night’s pleasures instead of worrying how to pay for them.

“Don’t be flippant, dearest. I can’t concentrate my thoughts when you are. Ah, if we could have let Loveland castle as well as we did twelve years ago!”

“You at least don’t need repairing,” said his mother, gazing at her son with admiration. “You’re the handsomest young man in the kingdom.”

Loveland laughed, though he believed her. As a child he had been kissed by all his mother’s prettiest friends because he was so absurdly beautiful and so precocious. If he had been a plain or stupid boy he might have grown up to be an estimable young man as marquises go. “Why don’t you say ‘in the world?’” he asked.

“I’m not a woman to exaggerate, dearest. All the Lovelands have been good-looking. One has only to go into the picture gallery at the castle to see that. My argument is that as you’re the best looking and the cleverest”—

“I don’t know a blessed thing, my dear ladyship; never had any education. You ought to have sent me to Eton instead of coddling me up with tutors and—

“You didn’t think so then. I remember well when it was proposed you flung yourself on the floor and howled.”

“So of course that settled it.”

“Why, yes. You generally settled things like that. You had such a de-

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a “sage tea.” Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don’t have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product. Wyeth’s Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c, and $1.00 a bottle, or sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Har-grove & Mullin.

termined way, dear. But you were born knowing more than many studious, uninteresting young men have forgotten. Then your South African career—it was like a romance. You were a mere child, hardly nineteen—so brave! And then the thing you did on the battlefield! Of course you ought to have had the Victoria cross, but as it was the newspapers rang with your praises, and I was besieged for your photographs to publish. That deed alone would have made you a personage of consideration even without your rank.”

“I COULDN’T BEAR THE CHAP.”

“I’ve told you lots of times, mater, the whole thing was a sort of accident. I couldn’t bear the chap. If I’d stopped to think I don’t believe I’d have run back a step to drag him out from under fire. But I was there hauling him away before I knew what I was doing.”

“Yes, you have told me and other people. But no one believes you. How could they? They see it’s your modesty.”

“Lord Loveland’s mother was perhaps the one person on earth who would have attributed to him this quality. ‘And, as for disliking the young man whose life you saved at the risk of your own, of course that proves you all the more noble. Everybody must see that.’”

“Oh, well, it’s a jolly good thing for me if they do,” said Val, mechanically passing his hand over the scar on his forehead, which became him like a hall mark or a halo. It, together with the South African brown that never quite faded, had made him still more ornamental in the eyes of the pretty young married women with whom he was popular; also in the eyes of girls, who liked to dance and flirt with Lord Loveland, even though they preferred to marry dukes and princes. “But what are you working up to so elaborately, mater?”

“To your prospects. There’s no young man so liked and wanted everywhere.”

“Oh, I’m fair at polo. I can ride straight and shoot a bit,” said Loveland, with a pretense at self deprecation he was far from feeling. “I get asked to all the amusing house parties. But you know as well as I do that stopping at such places is a lot more expensive than swaggering about at the most expensive hotels in Europe.”

“I know, dearest,” sighed the devoted lady who by industrious spoiling had made him what he was. “Val, you want my advice. Well, I’ve had an inspiration, I do believe, a real inspiration. Why don’t you go to America?”

“To try ranching?”

“Good heavens, no, my son! To try marrying. In America you’ll succeed brilliantly. Why not run over and see what there is?”

She spoke as if to see meant to have, notwithstanding certain failures nearer home. But Loveland’s sense of humor, which had a real existence, did not always bestir itself when his own affairs were in question.

“Oh, girls!” he said distastefully. “Why go there for them? Plenty come over here to collect us.”

“Yes. But think of the competition. There are still unmarried dukes. It’s so annoying. There always seem to be dukes and foreign semiroyalties who might better stop in their own countries than prowl about ours, seeking what they may devour. Let them look at you—the girls, I mean—on their native heath, where practically no competition can exist, for who ever heard of an American heiress marrying an American man?”

“I suppose it must happen sometimes,” said Val.

“Hardly any except Jim Harborough and—er—his cousin, who has married Stanforth.”

This was another instance of a misguided young woman who preferred a duke to the marquis. Therefore she remained nameless between mother and son.

“Mr. Harborough would, I suppose, give you letters of introduction to the right people over there.”

“Oh, yes. I suppose he would! He doesn’t approve of me, but he couldn’t refuse letters to his wife’s cousin.”

“Doesn’t approve of you, indeed! What impertinence! But perhaps he’s jealous and thinks you were once in love with Betty.”

“I never was in love with Betty. First cousins are a bit too near to be interesting.”

“It’s just as well you didn’t care for Betty. But she’s a sweet girl and must have made a good many friends in the States. Oh, Val, you really ought to go over! I’m sure you’d be the greatest success.”

“Perhaps it wouldn’t be a bad idea,” Loveland patronized his mother’s inspiration. “Of course Harborough and Betty would both give me letters. If I had to marry—horrid bore at my age—and could afford to choose I’d take an English girl of the right sort. But Americans are a lot better than English ones of the wrong sort. If a man’s a beggar he must be content with the wine and wives of the country where he begs.”

“That’s true,” agreed Lady Loveland, who had never in her life spoken to an American girl, but was now eager to become dowager for the sake of a desirable one. “If you went to New York—or somewhere—you’d see enough girls to feel you were picking out the best. Oh, you would virtually have a clear coast! And, judging from novels I’ve read, everybody in American society would be fighting for the honor of entertaining you.”

“They wouldn’t amuse me,” said Loveland in the blase way he had cultivated since he came back a wounded hero of nineteen in the last year of the South African war. “I should be there purely on business.” But, though he spoke like a tired man of forty rather than a happy and healthy one of twenty-six or seven, he was beginning to lean toward his mother’s advice. He could easily get a long leave. He had a couple of months due to him. After that, when his engagement was published in the papers, tradesmen would hold their hands.

“It oughtn’t to take you many weeks,” Lady Loveland was reflecting aloud, “if you went at the right season and to the right place.”

“The season is different for different places over there, Betty says,” remarked Loveland, who now, having discovered America as a spot worthy of note on the world’s map, was ready to explain it to his mother.

“How odd!” exclaimed Lady Loveland, to whom all things were odd and scarcely proper if they were not as in Great Britain. “But, oh, of course, you only mean that they go to one place to shoot at a certain time, to another to hunt at a different time, as we do—”

“Not exactly that, I think,” said Val, getting out of his element. “I believe it’s something to do with the thermometer. Betty went in summer and was obliged to stop at Newport. One reads things about Newport.”

“Yes, though I forget what,” replied his mother, dismissing Newport. “But in the States there must be heiresses abounding in great numbers everywhere, as all American girls appear to be rich in more or less degrees. They flock to Europe from towns with the most extraordinary names. I know there was one—Oshkosh or something of that sort.”

“I hardly think I should have to go as far afield as Oshkosh, wherever it may be,” said Loveland, glancing at his double in the mirror, where was reflected also the worn furnishing of his mother’s drawing room. With a pang he saw the sorry background and forgot himself for a moment in thinking of Loveland castle, a very noble, dull palace, all marble, gold plate, portraits and precedence when in its prime, echoing sadness now until such time as the heir might redeem it with some fair lady’s dollars. The murmur of those echoes depressed him, as did the white whirl of snow veiling the windows of the shooting lodge whither Lady Loveland had retired to live upon nothing that he might have something.

“Of course you won’t need to go to Oshkosh,” Lady Loveland said. “I only meant that if there could be millions in a town with such a name what must there be in others more important and easier to get at!”

“I’ll stick to the important ones that are easy to get at.”

“That means you are making up your mind to go?”

“It’s practically made up, thanks to you, mater. I believe in quick decisions.”

“Well, then, it’s quite settled. I feel to bring me a daughter-in-law to be well, not to be ashamed of. You might find something that would do on the ship which would save so much time and trouble!” exclaimed Lady Loveland, brightening. “You could marry immediately on landing. And yet—perhaps it would be foolish to do anything irrevocable until you’d looked to see what there was in New York. You mustn’t be reckless when so much depends upon prudence. Still, it would be wise to sail on a good ship, where you might meet millionaires. That would be only an ordinary precaution.”

“It wouldn’t be an ordinary price,” said Loveland.

“We must manage it somehow—and a good cabin. You owe that to your position.”

“I owe so much already I may as well owe a little more.”

“Val, dear, I asked you not to joke. It confuses me. And I need to concentrate all my ideas upon one point. Let me see—yes, the pink pearls!”

“The pink what?” asked Loveland, startled.

“I still have them—the double rope, you know.”

“I know—another beastly heirloom.”

“Still, one can pawn heirlooms. Your bride can redeem it and the other things. I’ve always saved the pink pearls for a great emergency. This is

“I’ll have to throw a few sops to Cerberus if I want new clothes to impress the American girls,” laughed Val. “That brute Deedes won’t give me so much as a waistcoat unless he gets something on account.”

“Pay him something,” said Lady Loveland. “Pay what you must. Keep what you can for yourself. As for me, I want nothing.”

“Except a rich daughter-in-law,” finished her son, his spirits rising, though the snow still fell. After all, it was only October, and there was sunshine elsewhere. In America perhaps it was now shining on his bride to be. “I’ll write to Betty about the letters,” he said, “after you’ve given me some tea.”

ENTIRE CADET CORPS ON A SILENCE STRIKE

West Point Officials Face Ticklish Proposition.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The entire cadet corps is under arrest and facing general courtmartial for gross disrespect to Captain Rufus E. Longan, instructor in tactics, and for insubordination. Major General Richard H. Barry, superintendent of the military academy, sent the four classes of 500 young men to their quarters after mess Saturday evening and a board of officers is sitting today endeavoring to find out why the cadets "silenced" Captain Longan.

They won't tell. The whole corps has stood out against General Barry's insistence. First-class men with almost perfect records in scholarship and conduct have remained as stubborn as the tallenders whose demerits run up into the hundreds. All that General Barry and the board have got out of them in reply to questions as to why they refused to eat in Captain Longan's presence or refused to speak when he was among them is the statement: "We have formed a dislike for this officer." The penalty provided by law of this degree of insubordination is dismissal from the academy.

HELD UP PASSENGERS

Bandits of St. Paul Make Successful Raid on Streetcar.

St. Paul, Sept. 26.—Six armed bandits held up a crowded streetcar, flourished knives and guns in the faces of the passengers, fought their way to the rear of the car and made their escape after getting $180. Four men drew knives and, warning the passengers to keep back, went to the assistance of two companions who had ordered "hands up." At Eleventh avenue one of the men signaled the motorman to stop the car and all backed down the platform and escaped.

Perils of the Air.

Paris, Sept. 26.—After making five successful flights with pupils at the aviation school at Chateaux Sunday, Edmond Poillot was landing on his sixth flight when his aeroplane fell like a stone from a height of sixty feet. Poillot's backbone was broken and he died in twenty minutes. The pupil who was with him was only slightly injured. Poillot is the nineteenth victim of aviation.

WILL TALK OVER THE SITUATION

President and Cabinet In Three-Day Session.

A REMARKABLE HOUSE PARTY

Oldest Washingtonian Does Not Recall a Similar Gathering of the Cabinet—The Members. All Save Mr. Dickinson, Who Is in Japan, Will Remain at the White House Three Days, the Guests of the President.

Washington, Sept. 26.—President Taft's cabinet "house party" got together today. The president himself reached Washington early Sunday after an absence of nearly three months and his official advisers dropped in one by one, from all parts of the country. Secretary of State Knox, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Secretary Ballinger, were already on hand at the national capital when the president arrived. Secretary Knox had been spending the summer at his country home at Valley Forge, Pa., with the exception of a few weeks when he was fighting black flies up on the Maine trout streams. Uncle Jim Wilson had, as usual, been looking over that farm of his in Iowa, with an occasional excursion into the surrounding territory to air his political views or a run to Washington for a few days' sitting on the administration lid. Mr. Ballinger had spent most of his vacation on the Pacific coast, denying that he was going to resign. Postmaster General Hitchcock arrived Sunday evening with a fine coat of tan collected on the Arizona desert. Mr. MacVeagh also came in looking in fine condition, and Secretary Meyer also showed up with every appearance of having had a good rest.

Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor and Attorney General Wickersham arrived with a report a yard or so long on their summer trip to Alaska. Secretary Dickinson is the only member who was not on hand to have his room assigned to him at the White House. He is in Japan.

This meeting is going to be a unique affair. Old timers in Washington have been scratching their heads and trying to recall a similar instance of the president taking all the members of his cabinet under the roof of the White House for a stay, but they say that this is the first time of which they have found record.

The president is going to be cramped for room in entertaining his eight guests, but by doubling up two of them he will be able to make a go of it. Secretary Norton, who has been designated as "room clerk" by the president, declined to say what assignments he had made. Life in the White House for the next three days is going to be pretty sharply regulated. The members of the party are all expected to be at the breakfast table by 8:30. There will be an informal discussion of affairs over the coffee and toast in the morning, but the formal session of the cabinet will not be called until 11 o'clock. Each session will last until about 1:30 in the afternoon, when the cabinet will again gather in the dining room to renew their discussions at lunch. Each afternoon the president will try to get exercise on the golf course or by riding horseback, and it is likely that he will take some members of his official family along with him on these side excursions. Mr. Knox and Mr. Meyer are the only two golf players in the cabinet.

Dinner will be served in the White House at 7:30, and the evenings will be given over to further discussion of the problems confronting the administration. Mr. Taft expects to thresh out with his advisers all the difficulties of the administration and to invite the frankest discussion.

INDIANAPOLIS HAS NOTABLE VISITORS

Members of Prison Congress In That City Today.

Indianapolis, Sept. 26.—This city is today the host to what is termed the most distinguished delegation of visitors ever seen in America outside of the diplomatic circles at Washington. The business district is ablaze with flags of all nations. State officials, county and city officials stood in line with the commercial and civic bodies of the city to welcome the fifty delegates, who represent all prominent nations of the world.

The visit to Indianapolis of the delegates to the International Prison congress, which will be held in Washington, D. C., for one week, beginning Oct. 2, is one step on one of the most extensive and interesting itineraries ever mapped out in the United States. Titled persons and many of international fame are en tour for the purpose of study and recommendations as to the systems of penal institutions of the world.

The delegates arrived at the Union station at 6:30 o'clock this morning, where they were met by the reception committee—representatives of the state, city and the various commercial and civic bodies. About twenty of the delegates are accompanied by their wives. Many students of criminology also are in the party, bringing the number of visitors close to 100. Following an automobile tour of the city, the party went to the legislative chamber of the statehouse, where addresses of welcome were made by Charles W. Fairbanks, Governor Marshall, Judge Oscar H. Montgomery and Amos W. Butler, secretary of the state board of charities and correction. Responses to the welcome were made by Dr. Charles R. Henderson, president of the international prison commission; Sir Evelyn Ruggles Brise, K. C. B., chairman prison commission of London, England, and Dr. Ernst Rosenfeld, secretary of the International Criminalistic association, Berlin, Germany.

THE TRAIL EXTENDS

Car Repair Grafters Said Also to Have "Milked" the Rock Island.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Developments in the Illinois Central graft investigation revealed the fact that the alleged $2,000,000 car repair graft extended into the Rock Island railroad system, according to lawyers in the case. It was learned that officers of the Rock Island have been conducting a quiet investigation for some weeks and that they discovered, it is asserted, that the road was milked to the extent of $30,000.

It was discovered that overcharges had been made on 2,000 cars of the Rock Island company. This work, it is said, was done by the Blue Island Car and Equipment company at Blue Island. The method employed, officials say, were typical of those by which the Illinois Central was defrauded out of millions of dollars.

Sultan in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The sultan of Sulu and his party arrived here last night. The sultan went to the Arlington house, where an apartment had been reserved for him. He has planned to spend several days in Washington, which will be spent in sight-seeing and visiting prominent officials. The sultan will probably call upon President Taft at the White House in the next few days.

Tragedy at a Dance.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Following an argument in the South Side Turner hall while a dance was in progress, Joseph Reilly shot and killed William Clinton. Following the killing dancers gathered about Reilly and he was so badly beaten that he was taken to a hospital. Clinton, who was about twenty-five years old, was a driver for a brewing company.

Modern Life Would Be Too Hard on the Nerves If It Were Not For Want Advertising

The pace of life has become tense.

Worries, disappointments, up-sets at home and office, losses, discouragements seem to multiply as daily life becomes more complex.

The property owner, who MUST have a steady income from rents or lose his property, is "racked" by the untimely defection of a tenant. Some classified advertising quickly retrieves his loss—and quiets his nerves!

The salary-earner unexpectedly loses his position—and his peace-of-mind. The strain would shortly "break" something in his nervous system, if, once more, want advertising did not find the better job—and restore him his mental equilibrium.

In every phase of the city's life, every day, the Want Ads play the part of the peace-maker. They SERVE you and me at some crisis in our lives—and keep the modern pace and tension from proving too fast and tight for US.

Truly, the Want Ads ARE FOR SERVICE!

There's a Big Difference in Shoes

Some Shoes are exceptionally stylish, but oh, how they hurt when you wear them. Others are so mighty comfortable that you'd like to wear them if they didn't look quite so ungainly and clumsy.

Then again some are not serviceable—you don't get your money's worth.

It's possible to COMBINE style and comfort with good Hard Wear; the proof is our shoes.

ACCIDENTS MAR
THE DAY'S RACES

All of Local Motorcycle Riders Journeyed to Shelbyville Yesterday to Witness Sport.

NONE OF THEM PARTICIPATED

Two Indianapolis Riders Take Part in Thrilling Dash Through Fence, But Escape Unhurt.

About all of the local motorcycleists in the city "motored" to Shelbyville yesterday afternoon, where they witnessed the motorcycle races, held at the fair ground. The afternoon sport was marred by an accident which resulted rather fortunately for the victim. The event is described as follows in the Shelbyville Morning News:

The motorcycle races at the fair ground-track Sunday afternoon drew a crowd of about five hundred and there were seven of the events, most of them interesting to the spectators. But two accidents occurred to mar the pleasure of the meet and neither of those was serious.

Before the racing began Ed Weber of Indianapolis lost control of his machine and allowed it to dash into the fence. Seeing the crash was inevitable he made a lucky leap from the wheel and escaped injury.

Harry Stuard of Indianapolis was not so fortunate. The racing had not progressed very far until he and his machine took a flying dash over the fence at the east end of the track. Everybody supposed the accident had been attended with serious, if not fatal results, but Stuard was on his feet before anyone could reach him and was safe, if not entirely sound. His right ankle was sprained and one of his leather leggings was torn off, but that was the extent of the damage to himself. His machine was put out of the running but was not damaged to badly as the one owned by Weber. Both wheels were shipped back to Indianapolis in an interurban car.

The only local man to make a showing in the races was Rolly Barnes, the well-known mail carrier. He won the three mile open event for private owners. The awards to the winners were cups and the races were managed by L. A. Chapman of Indianapolis.
